Nest Insight 2019: Agenda

8.45 - 9.15 Arrival and registration Welcome and housekeeping Will Sandbrook will introduce the day, and give an update on Niest Insight's research programme and partners. Will Sandbrook, Nest Insight will Sandbrook, Nest Insight will send brown the string of the Comment of th		Session	Speakers
Will Sandbrook will introduce the day, and give an update on Nest Insight's research programme and partners.	8.45 - 9.15	Arrival and registration
Nest Insight's research programme and partners. 9.30 - 11.00 Panel 1: The lived experience of saving This panel will explore the day-to-day financial lives of the DC generation of savers, and introduce new ways that data and technology can help us better serve their needs. Hayley James will discuss recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent qualitative work to contribution increases within the auto enrolment system. John Gathergood, Nottingham University 11.00 - 11.30 Break and networking 11.30 - 12.00 Viewpoint 1: The limits to behaviour change Professor Laibson will look at the real-world impacts of the new wave of behavioural finance interventions. Auto enrolment and similar approaches are being used around the world to overcome effects are these changes having on consumers' wider financial lives, and what might this usgest for the future? 12.00 - 13.30 Evidence sharing and lunch During the buffet lunch there will be an opportunity to learn in depth about innovative work by researchers in consumer financial behaviour. This sharing session will include updates on Nest Insight's research programmes on sidecar savings and the self-employed, along with displays and demonstrations from a range of leading researchers. 13.30 - 15.00 Panel 2: Bridging the gap This panel will ask whether the savings system can do more to serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savin	9.15 - 9.30	Welcome and housekeeping	Will Sandbrook, Nest Insight
This panel will explore the day-to-day financial lives of the DC generation of savers, and introduce new ways that data and technology can help us better serve their needs. Hayley James will discuss recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent work, supported by Legal & General Investment Management (LGIM), exploring the impact of contribution increases within the auto enrolment system. John Gathergood will look at how financial data creates new opportunities to understand people's financial lives. 11.00 - 11.30 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 12.00 - 13.30 Viewpoint 1: The limits to behaviour change Professor Laibson will look at the real-world impacts of the new wave of behavioural finance interventions. Auto enrolment and similar approaches are being used around the world to overcome people's present bias and encourage savings. But what spill-over effects are these changes having on consumers' wider financial lives, and what might this suggest for the future? 12.00 - 13.30 12.00 - 13.30 13.30 - 15.00 13.3
generation of savers, and introduce new ways that data and technology can help us better serve their needs. Hayley James will discuss recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest insight's recent work, supported by Legal & General Investment Management (LGIM), exploring the impact of contribution increases within the auto enrolment system. John Gathergood will look at how financial data creates new opportunities to understand people's financial lives. 11.00 - 11.30 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 11.30 - 12.00 12.00 - 13.30 13.3	9.30 - 11.00	Panel 1: The lived experience of saving	Chair: Greg Levin, Blackrock
11.30 - 12.00 Viewpoint 1: The limits to behaviour change Professor Laibson will look at the real-world impacts of the new wave of behavioural finance interventions. Auto enrolment and similar approaches are being used around the world to overcome people's present bias and encourage savings. But what spill-over effects are these changes having on consumers' wider financial lives, and what might this suggest for the future? 12.00 - 13.30 Evidence sharing and lunch During the buffet lunch there will be an opportunity to learn in depth about innovative work by researchers in consumer financial behaviour. This sharing session will include updates on Nest Insight's research programmes on sidecar savings and the self-employed, along with displays and demonstrations from a range of leading researchers. 13.30 - 15.00 Panel 2: Bridging the gap This panel will ask whether the savings system can do more to serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made a more realistic option for young people. 15.00 - 15.15 Tea break 15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. Helen Dean, Nest		generation of savers, and introduce new ways that data and technology can help us better serve their needs. Hayley James will discuss recent qualitative work exploring the motives behind people's pension decisions. Jo Phillips will speak about Nest Insight's recent work, supported by Legal & General Investment Management (LGIM), exploring the impact of contribution increases within the auto enrolment system. John Gathergood will look at how financial data creates new opportunities to	Dr Hayley James, Manchester University Professor John Gathergood,
Professor Laibson will look at the real-world impacts of the new wave of behavioural finance interventions. Auto enrolment and similar approaches are being used around the world to overcome people's present bias and encourage savings. But what spill-over effects are these changes having on consumers' wider financial lives, and what might this suggest for the future? 12.00 - 13.30	11.00 - 11.30	Break and networking
12.00 - 13.30 Evidence sharing and lunch During the buffet lunch there will be an opportunity to learn in depth about innovative work by researchers in consumer financial behaviour. This sharing session will include updates on Nest Insight's research programmes on sidecar savings and the self-employed, along with displays and demonstrations from a range of leading researchers. 13.30 - 15.00 Panel 2: Bridging the gap This panel will ask whether the savings system can do more to serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made a more realistic option for young people. 15.00 - 15.15 Tea break 15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. 15.45 - 16.15 Closing remarks Research marketplace Research marketplace Research marketplace Research marketplace Research marketplace Phase and the savings and the self-and the savings and the self-employed, and the self-employed and the savings and the self-employed and the self-employed and the savings and the self-employed and the savings and the self-employed an	11.30 - 12.00	Professor Laibson will look at the real-world impacts of the new wave of behavioural finance interventions. Auto enrolment and similar approaches are being used around the world to overcome people's present bias and encourage savings. But what spill-over effects are these changes having on consumers' wider financial	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
During the buffet lunch there will be an opportunity to learn in depth about innovative work by researchers in consumer financial behaviour. This sharing session will include updates on Nest Insight's research programmes on sidecar savings and the self-employed, along with displays and demonstrations from a range of leading researchers. 13.30 - 15.00 Panel 2: Bridging the gap This panel will ask whether the savings system can do more to serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made a more realistic option for young people. 15.00 - 15.15 Tea break 15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. Closing remarks Helen Dean, Nest	12.00 - 13.30	Evidence sharing and lunch	Research marketplace
This panel will ask whether the savings system can do more to serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made a more realistic option for young people. 15.00 - 15.15 Tea break 15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. 15.45 - 16.15 Closing remarks Helen Dean, Nest		During the buffet lunch there will be an opportunity to learn in depth about innovative work by researchers in consumer financial behaviour. This sharing session will include updates on Nest Insight's research programmes on sidecar savings and the self-employed, along with displays and demonstrations from a serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made a more realistic option for young people. 15.00 - 15.15 Tea break 15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. 15.45 - 16.15 Closing remarks Helen Dean, Nest	13.30 - 15.00	Panel 2: Bridging the gap	Chair: Zoe Alexander, Nest
15.15 - 15.45 Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. Closing remarks Ida Rademacher, The Aspen Institute Interviewer: Will Sandbrook, Nest Insight Helen Dean, Nest		serve the needs of harder-to-reach groups. Yvonne Braun will explore the pensions gender gap. Helen Undy will show how financial services need to adapt to meet the needs of people with mental health issues. Iona Bain will ask how savings can be made	Yvonne Braun, ABI
Ida Rademacher, Executive Director of the Aspen Financial Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. Interviewer: Will Sandbrook, Nest Insight Nest Insight Helen Dean, Nest	15.00 - 15.15	Tea break
Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income households. 15.45 - 16.15 Closing remarks Nest Insight Nest Insight Helen Dean, Nest	15.15 - 15.45	Viewpoint 2: A more inclusive savings landscape	Ida Rademacher, The Aspen Institute
		Security Program, will explore new approaches to making savings more inclusive. In discussion with Will Sandbrook, she'll share some of the latest innovative work from the United States that's helping develop better financial solutions for lower income	•
16.15 - 18.00 Drinks reception	15.45 - 16.15	Closing remarks	Helen Dean, Nest
	16.15 - 18.00	Drinks reception	