What role can language play in helping pension scheme members contribute the right amount for them?

Beyond the defaults

Technical report

Introduction

This technical report is a companion to the report, 'Beyond the defaults: What role can language play in helping pension scheme members contribute the right amount for them?' which details the results and learnings from research that seeks to understand what role language can play in helping pension scheme members contribute a suitable amount to their pension scheme.

The research questions addressed in this research are:

- How do people understand pension contributions currently – what are the comprehension and awareness barriers to engagement and action with contributions?
- How can language and message framing around contributions be better used to help improve the success of interventions designed to help people to save the right amount for them in retirement?

This technical report sets out in more detail the methodologies used for the research and is designed to be read in conjunction with the main findings paper.

Overview of methodology

We combined three different research methods in an iterative approach to address the research questions: expert interviews, qualitative research and quantitative research.

Expert interviews

We conducted interviews with eight experts from within the pensions industry, including scheme trustees, pension providers and advisors and benefits consultants. Question areas covered included:

- barriers to and drivers of engagement with pension saving
- views on more and less effective ways of talking about contribution levels including concepts, words and phrases and rules of thumb
- examples of approaches to member engagement that have worked well or less well
- desirable behavioural outcomes
- impacts of the Covid-19 pandemic on member attitudes and behaviours.

Following the expert interviews, we developed a set of different words, message frames and questions to take forward into research with workplace pension scheme members. We are grateful to these experts for sharing their knowledge and perspectives and giving their time so generously.

A topic guide used to structure the interviews can be found in Appendix A.

Qualitative research

The next stage was to explore how workplace pension scheme members would respond to the stimulus materials we'd developed, as well as evolving the language we used. In June 2020 we conducted qualitative research with both individuals and groups.

40 participants took part in the individual online pre-work sessions lasting around 15 minutes. 33 of these participants then went on to take part in one of four online discussion groups. Each discussion group lasted two hours and involved 6-9 participants.

The groups were split as follows:

- Group 1: all earning £18K-29K per year and age 22-39
- Group 2: all earning £30K-45K per year and age 22-39
- Group 3: all earning £18K-29K per year and age 40-54
- Group 4: all earning £30K-45K per year and age 40-54

The screener used to select research participants for the qualitative research can be found in Appendix B.

The online pre-work

Participants were first shown different explanations of what contributions are and asked to highlight any words or phrases that they particularly liked or didn't like. They were then shown 14 different message frames, voiced by an actor. Message stimuli adhered to an overarching flow of Objective 1, Objective 2, and Objective 3, but were rotated within their respective sections during the pre-work period to ensure participants were exposed to the stimuli in various orders.

There was a slider tool directly below the film with a scale ranging from 0–100. They were asked to react to each film using their mouse to tell us whether they had a positive or negative response to each phrase they were hearing.

At each video the slider started at 50 which participants were told was neutral. If what they heard made them feel more positive, they were instructed to move the slider up toward 100. If what they heard made them feel less positive, they were asked to drag the slider down toward 0. They were asked to use the entire range of the slider and keep reacting second by second, every word, for the entire message. Between some films, participants were asked a multiple-choice question pertaining to language preferences. They were also shown examples of communications they might receive from their employer or pension provider and asked to rank them or give feedback on them.

The message frames used in this research can be found in Appendix C, and Appendix D contains details of the pre-work task, including questions used to create audience segments.

The discussion groups

Discussion groups were conducted remotely by video, as the country was at the time in full lockdown in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. One benefit of this approach was that it allowed participants from a broad spread of UK locations to take part. During the video call participants were asked at certain points in the discussion to give their individual feedback on questions via a chat function. Throughout the sessions, participants re-watched the messages they reacted to in the pre-work and discussed the messages as a group. At times, the participants were asked to give their individual feedback on questions via a chat function.

The discussions covered:

- Associations with pension schemes and contributions
- Attitudes and behaviours around contribution levels and pension saving
- A deeper discussion around the message frames looking at language to:
 - Define what contributions are
 - Engage members in how much they are currently contributing
 - Prompt them to question whether the minimum contribution levels set under auto enrolment are right for their circumstances
- A prioritisation of the messages and a chance for participants to suggest their own language to prompt someone to check how much they are saving into their pension

The full topic guide for the discussions can be found in Appendix E.

Quantitative research

Following the qualitative research we validated and quantified the learnings in a 20-minute online survey conducted with 1,507 participants in August and September 2020.

The participants were all:

- Living and working in the UK
- Covered by automatic enrolment and working for an employer offering a defined contribution pension scheme
- Aged 22-54
- With individual income between £10,000 and £59,999 per year

The sample breakout was as follows:

- 55% female; 44% male
- 45% aged 22-39; 55% aged 40-54
- 20% earning £10,000-19,999; 30% earning £20,000-29,999; 21% earning £30,000-39,999; 17% earning £40,000-49,999; 12% earning £50,000-59,999
- 83% employed full time; 14% employed part time; 3% furloughed under the government Job Retention Scheme

The questionnaire covered:

- Demographics and household financial context
- Workplace pension attitudes and behaviours
- Language preferences around contributions
- Awareness and understanding of key concepts including employer contributions, tax relief, ability to contribute more than the minimum contributions under auto enrolment
- Preferences for and trust in different channels and messengers
- Responses to different language and messages.

The full questionnaire can be found in Appendix F.

Defining contributions

- How could pension contributions be explained to someone who had never heard of them before?
- What are scheme members' general understanding of what contributions are and how they're set? What are the key barriers?
- What are some examples of effective and less effective ways to explain contributions?

Balance checking and determining contribution levels

- What are some of the key things to say to convince people who have never checked their pension balance before of why to check their balance today?
- What impact does pension balance checking have on people's lives? What kind of mental or emotional benefit does it provide?
- What is the best way to walk people through the decision of determining how much to contribute to their pension? What are the key questions to ask? What are the key considerations?
- It can be very difficult to determine how much to save now in order to have enough money later. Are there any rules of thumb or analogies for determining contributions levels that could help people's understanding?

Increasing/making additional contributions

- What are the top reasons why people increase their contributions? What are the top reasons people should increase their contributions?
- Do those reasons differ according to scheme member demographics?
- What are your views about the effectiveness of fear based (e.g. loss aversion) versus positive framing when it comes to increasing contributions?
- What are your views about the effectiveness of focusing on what increasing contributions means for people's lives now vs focusing on what it could enable later?
- Auto-enrolment in the UK has been huge but has led to people being less likely to engage with pensions than before, had they actively opted in. How would you convince someone that adding on to the auto-enrol level is a good idea?
- How best to frame messages for younger generations to convince them that their future will differ from their parents' generation whose future turned out fine while not topping up their contributions?
- How best to frame the affordability issue – how might you make the case to someone that increasing their pension contributions may be more manageable than they think?

Barriers for increasing contributions

- What are some scenarios where increasing pension contributions may not be appropriate?
- What kind of barriers have you seen get in the way of scheme members saving more? (e.g. structural barriers as well as behavioural or emotional barriers)
- If people make the right level of contributions for their own retirement, what's different? What does that do for them that wouldn't have been possible otherwise?

Wrap-up

- How, if at all, have you seen Covid-19 impact scheme members' pension contributions? Has there been a need to adjust communications to scheme members in the context of the pandemic?
- Is there anything else that you think would be helpful for us to know as we create messages for this project?

Appendix B – Screener criteria used for the qualitative research

4 x 2-hour online listening sessions with pre-session assignment

Group 1	Group 2	Group 3	Group 4
£18K–29K per year	£30K–45K per year	£18–29K per year	£30K–45K per year
Age 22–39	Age 22–39	Age 40–54	Age 40–54

All participants:

- Roughly even mix of males and females
- Mix of ages 22–54
- Mix of education levels
- Does not work in marketing, communications, journalism, financial services, or pensions
- Must be employed full-time or part-time (max 2 per group who have been furloughed due to Covid-19)
- Range of employer sizes
- Must be a participant in a defined contribution pension scheme
- Individual income between £18,000 – £45,000 per year
- Must check their pension balance once per year or less
- Shared/sole decision maker on household finances
- Must be clear and articulate speakers and have all necessary technology to participate in research remotely

Demographics

1a. Which region in the UK do you live in?

Employer and pension schemes

7. To include participants from a broad range of industries, companies, and job functions, please tell us your job title, name of company, and industry?

[Record exact title, name of company, and industry]

Job title: _____

Name of company: _____

Industry: _____

Notes for recruiter:

- Recruit a mix of titles, companies, and industries
- If respondent provides vague answer, i.e. "Manager," probe to capture specific type of manager. If respondent provides acronyms, probe for long-form answers
- Please terminate anyone working in retirement benefits or pensions for their company
- If there are any questions, please pass along to maslansky + partners for review

8. Which of the following best describes your employer?

- 1 My employer is in the private sector
(for example, a business, a non-governmental agency, professional services, etc.)
- 2 My employer is in the public sector
(for example, civil service, military, police, infrastructure, health care, education, etc.)

9. How many employees does your company, organization, or institution currently have, including yourself? [Record exact number/estimate: ____]

[Do not read options. Recruit mix]

- 1 1-10
- 2 11-50
- 3 51-100
- 4 101-500
- 5 501-5,000
- 6 More than 5,000

10. Now, I want to ask you about two kinds of workplace pension schemes.

First, in a defined benefit scheme, an employer pays a defined amount to employees who meet certain criteria. At retirement, you receive an amount based on your earnings and your length of membership in the scheme. One example of a defined benefit pension is a final salary scheme.

On other hand, in a defined contribution scheme, both you and your employer make contributions into the pension. If your employer offers this type of scheme, you are automatically enrolled in it. At retirement, you receive an amount based on how much money has been contributed, how long the money has been invested, and how the investments have performed over time.

To the best of your knowledge, does your employer offer a defined benefit scheme, a defined contribution scheme, or both? (READ)

- 1 Defined benefit scheme only [Terminate]
- 2 Defined contribution scheme only
- 3 Both
- 4 Neither [Terminate]
- 5 Don't know

11. The next question is specifically about your current employer's defined contribution pension scheme. As a reminder, this is where you and your employer make contributions into the pension. If eligible, you would have been automatically enrolled into this scheme with the choice to opt out. At retirement, you receive an amount based on how much money has been contributed, how long the money has been invested, and how the investments have performed over time. Which best describes you?

- 1 I am enrolled in this scheme
- 2 I am eligible for the scheme, but not enrolled [Terminate]
- 3 I opted out [Terminate]
- 4 I am not eligible [Terminate]
- 5 I don't know [Terminate]

12. How often do you check your pension balance?

- 1 Once a week [Terminate]
- 2 Once a month [Terminate]
- 3 Every few months [Terminate]
- 4 A few times a year [Terminate]
- 5 About once a year
- 6 Less than once a year [Recruit as many as possible]
- 7 I have never checked my pension balance [Recruit as many as possible]

13. In the past four months, has your HOUSEHOLD income...?

[Recruit mix]

[Note to recruiter: please ensure respondent answers for household income and not just individual]

[If R1, refer respondent to uk money and pension service advice page on Covid-19 and personal finance, thank, and close]

- 1 Dropped by a lot [Terminate]
- 2 Dropped by a little
- 3 Stayed the same
- 4 Increased by any amount
- 5 Prefer not to answer [Terminate]

14. Which of the following best describes your role in the financial decisions made in your household?

- 1 I make all or most of the financial decisions
- 2 I am actively involved in and share in most of the financial decisions
- 3 Someone else makes all or most of the financial decisions [Terminate]
- 4 Prefer not to answer [Terminate]

15. What sort of investor do you consider yourself to be?

[R2 and R3 combined should not exceed 2 respondents per group, on a best-efforts basis]

- 1 I'm a cautious investor
- 2 I am comfortable taking some risk in order to try to get better returns
- 3 I will take significant risks to achieve high potential returns
- 4 I'm not sure

Participation

- 16. Now I'm going to read you a list of statements that may or may not describe you personally. Please rate how well each statement describes you on a scale of 1 to 10, where "10" means it describes you completely, and "1" means it does not describe you at all. First is... [Must select at least 5 statements in shaded area]

#		Doesn't describe me at all					Describes me completely
1	If asked to describe something I know about, I can usually do it in detail.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
2	I'm uncomfortable talking with others, especially if I haven't met them before.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
3	Others would describe me as having a strong sense of self.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
4	I do not see myself as naturally creative.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
5	I like to reflect about things in order to make new discoveries about myself.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
6	I have trouble expressing my thoughts and feelings.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
7	I consider myself very articulate.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

- 17. When was the last time you personally participated in a focus group or similar group discussion where you were compensated?

- 1 Less than 6 months ago [Terminate]
 2 6 – 12 months ago [Continue to 17A]
 3 12 or more months ago
 4 I have never been in a focus group
 5 Don't know/refused [Do not read] [Terminate]

- 17A. What was the topic of research? [Record verbatim]
 [Terminate if topic is related to the Financial Services industry]

- 18. And finally, I'd like you to use your imagination and think about if you had to give a speech on anything in the world, what would it be and why?

[Open end, record response, looking for people who are articulate, creative, descriptive, and confident]

- 19. [QUESTIONS FOR RECRUITER TO FILL OUT]

[Terminate if answer "no" on any of these statements, otherwise continue]

Respondent speaks clearly	Yes	No
Respondent answers questions clearly and completely	Yes	No
Respondent did NOT require extensive repetition of questions	Yes	No
Respondent did NOT exhibit a hearing impairment	Yes	No

Technology screening questions

1. Do you have daily access to a computer with high-speed internet access? By computer, we mean a traditional laptop or desktop machine, NOT a tablet or mobile device. Select one.

- Yes.
 - No [Thank and terminate]

2. On average, how often do you use the Internet? Select one.

- I'm pretty much always online
 - More than once a day
 - Once a day
 - A few times a week
 - Once a week [Thank and terminate]
 - Less than once a week [Thank and terminate]

3A. This study will require you to watch videos with sound and rate the videos using your computer mouse. Do you have working speakers on your computer?

- Yes
 - No [Thank and terminate]

4. Do you currently have a working webcam on your computer that you are comfortable recording yourself with?

- Yes, I have a webcam
- No [Thank and terminate]

Appendix C – Message frames used in the research

‘Frames’ are discrete messaging territories that were tested in the qualitative research. A diverse range of approaches to communicating were used, not all of which we knew at the outset would necessarily test well (because we learn just as much from what doesn’t work as what does).

The frames are not meant to serve as ready-to-be-tested language. Instead, they help us isolate different ideas and tones and ensure we’re capturing all the arguments we need to test. Each frame tested a specific hypothesis and explored a range of language and articulations.

In the research we focused on three objectives:

- 1 Defining contributions: Articulating what they are and how they are determined
- 2 Engaging members: Motivating members to check their balances, and understand and care about their schemes
- 3 Questioning automatic enrolment: Motivating members to determine whether the minimum contribution level set through automatic enrolment is right for their unique goals and circumstances

Objective 1: Defining Contributions

Tested in the pre-work and in group discussions
Labels were not shown to participants

BUILDING BLOCKS

Contributions are small amounts you save from each pay cheque. They help you incrementally build toward your retirement over the years, serving as the foundation for your future.

DEFERRED SALARY

Contributions are bits of your salary you can choose to set aside for the future. You can take them back out at a later date when you’re no longer working, working less, or have transitioned to doing the work you want to do.

ENHANCED SAVINGS

Contributions are a percentage of your earnings you have in your company’s pension scheme. They can help you get more money from your savings, because they give you advantages like tax relief and extra money from your employer in the form of matched savings.

STANDARD DEFINITION

The minimum contribution set by the government that you and your employer collectively pay into your pension account is 8 per cent of your salary (the exact amounts can vary from employer to employer). The minimum employee contribution is 5 per cent, which equates to approximately 4 per cent of your take-home pay.

Objective 2: Engaging members

Tested in the pre-work and in group discussions
Labels were not shown to participants

DEMYSTIFY – DO YOU KNOW THE FIRST STEP?

Today, more people than ever are enrolled in their workplace pension scheme. But being part of the scheme—and knowing how much you’re saving through it—are two different things.

You might be surprised to learn how much money is automatically set aside for your pension each pay packet. We’re reaching out to be sure you know how to check how much of your wage is transferred each month.

To check, you can take a look at your payslip, which lists how many pounds you’re saving in each pay period. And if you have questions, and want friendly guidance without the jargon, our HR team can always help.

Objective 2: Engaging members

Tested in the pre-work and in group discussions

Labels were not shown to participants

EASY – TAKING THE NEXT STEP TOWARDS SAVING FOR RETIREMENT IS EASY

With everything going on today, pensions aren't always a top priority. Figuring out exactly how much is going in each pay period is easy to push off to another time. But with payday coming up, it might be easier than you think to find out more.

Knowing how much you're putting away is as straightforward as checking your pension account online. It can take as little as two minutes to find the two numbers you need: first, the pounds you're setting aside with tax relief each pay period; and second, the pounds we're chipping in on top of that as your employer. With such clear-cut information, it's never been simpler to check in on your saving strategy.

MOMENTUM – YOU'RE ALREADY ON YOUR WAY

Today is payday, and we have good news! You have savings waiting for you. While you've been working hard to take care of your daily expenses, you've also been saving for the future through your workplace pension scheme. If you earn £25,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then about £62 is stashed away from your pay cheque each month to save for your retirement. Your employer pays in around £47 per month on top of that—with another £15 in tax relief—for a total of about £124 saved per month.

Curious to know how much you're saving in? Log in to your pension account today to see the savings that are waiting for you. You might be pleasantly surprised.

KNOW WHERE YOU STAND – CHECKING YOUR PROGRESS HELPS YOU DECIDE HOW TO MOVE FORWARD

Making the most of your pay packet means knowing how much money goes into your pocket, and how much gets tucked away for the future. The next time you receive your annual statement, have a look at how much you receive in the scheme each month.

A pension calculator can help you estimate how much money you'll have in retirement based on what you're receiving today—for example, saving £2,500 each year starting when you're 30 could mean an income of £15,686 a year in retirement when you factor in your state pension. Knowing this, you may decide to keep your contributions steady, or boost them. The first step to building the future you want is knowing where you stand.

FUTURE SELF – YOU'LL THANK YOURSELF FOR MANAGING YOUR RETIREMENT

Knowing how much you're saving through your pension is a stepping stone to creating the retirement you want. But with everything going on these days, checking in on your pension account can easily fall by the wayside.

That's why right now, you should consider setting a calendar reminder to check your pension balance on your birthday each year. Some advanced planning can help make it easier to get things done. And as you watch your money grow, you'll thank yourself for looking out for your best interests.

TEAM – THERE'S A TEAM WORKING TOWARDS YOUR RETIREMENT

When you join our organisation's pension, you're joining a team working together to set aside money for your future. To see the partnership in action, just take a look at your payslip.

Your role is to monitor how much money you're tucking away to ensure you're on track to meet your needs. The government's role is to support your saving by holding off on taxing any money you put in—meaning at least an additional 1% in your pocket. And our role is to increase how much you can save by pitching in an extra 3% on your behalf—free money that's all yours. Pound for pound, this is the best deal for your retirement savings.

So as you save for your future, you can rest assured you're not doing it alone.

Objective 3: Questioning minimum enrolment

Tested in the pre-work and in group discussions
Labels were not shown to participants

STARTING LINE – MINIMUM CONTRIBUTIONS ARE THE STARTING LINE, NOT THE FINISHING LINE

When you started your job, you became a member of the company pension scheme. Everyone enrolled in the scheme starts out by saving 4% of their pay cheques, with our company and the government topping that up by another 4% through matched contributions and tax relief. Having this starting point makes it easier and faster to save for the future—which can help you get closer to the retirement you want.

But while the pension sets a starting line for savings, there are many different finishing lines. If you've been at the company for more than a year, it's a good idea to revisit how much of your wage you're setting aside.

That way, you can decide if the default level is the still level you want.

DON'T STAY ON THE BANDWAGON – PEOPLE WHO ACTIVELY ENGAGE WITH THEIR SAVINGS RATE OFTEN DO BETTER IN RETIREMENT

A record number of people have workplace pensions that help them save for retirement. That's good news. But many people stay with the minimum savings rate in those pensions. That's less good news—because this rate is required to get started, but not always recommended for the long haul.

It's best to make sure that how much you're saving is right for you. Sometimes the minimum savings rate makes sense. Other times, it can mean getting the minimum out of your retirement. Either way, people who get more involved in their pension scheme tend to enjoy their retirements more.

So don't follow the crowd. Secure the retirement you want by actively selecting the rate that's right for you.

PERSONALISE – THE WAY YOU SAVE SHOULD BE AS UNIQUE AS YOUR RETIREMENT

No two retirements are the same. That's why it's important to revisit how much you're saving through your pension, so you can create a personalised plan that fits with your vision of retirement.

You may decide that what matters most to you is collecting more savings in your pension each pay period. Or, if you're already putting in more than the minimum and feel on track, you may decide to take more income in your pay packet instead.

Whether you top up your savings, or scale back to get more money today, you know the contribution level that's best for you. No matter what you decide, customising your savings rate will help turn the default pension scheme into your personal pension scheme.

CHANGE – YOUR LIFE AND NEEDS ARE EVOLVING AND SO SHOULD YOUR RETIREMENT SCHEME

Your life isn't standing still—and neither should your pension contributions.

The right number of pounds to put in today might be different than how much you saved in the past. You could consider building a little more in the pot after your next pay rise. Or maybe you need a bit more cash on hand in the near term for expenses like moving or growing your family. You have the flexibility to adjust what you save or take home to make sure your pension scheme is keeping up with your lifestyle.

As life's twists and turns unfold, keep an eye on your pension scheme to make sure it's keeping up with the changes.

IMPORTANT – SAVING FOR RETIREMENT MATTERS A LOT FOR YOUR FUTURE QUALITY OF LIFE

We've all heard the advice—contributing to your pension scheme is one of the most important things you can do during your working years.

But it can be hard to fully understand just how much of an impact that can have on our future quality of life. To ensure a comfortable retirement, the single best thing you can do is increase the amount you save through your pension each year—even if it's only by an extra £20 or £30 each month.

It all comes down to aligning what you do today with how you want to spend your tomorrow. Above all else, be sure you're saving the right amount, right now.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY – IT'S UP TO YOU TO DO THE RIGHT THING

When you started working as our employee, it was our responsibility to enrol you in the pension and ensure you started saving. But prioritising your pension is up to you.

The good news is that it can be simple to find extra savings if you review your budget. One way to save a few extra pounds is to make your morning coffee at home and pay the £2 you save per day into your pension—or to wait on the gym membership, new clothes, or haircut until next month. If you've already boosted your contributions past the minimum and feel confident you're on track, you may opt to keep more money in your pay packet. No matter the specifics, it's your personal responsibility to determine the best amount, set it up, and stick with it.

RULE OF THUMB – HERE'S HOW TO DO IT

It's common to wonder how much money you'll need down the road—and what that means for your saving strategy now. With so many unknowns, rules of thumb can help us know what to expect and what to save.

One well-known approach is to top up the 8% you're already putting away through automatic enrolment to save 15% of your income each year. Another is to divide your age in half and tuck away that percentage each year. A new resource called the Retirement Living Standards also gives examples of the kind of lifestyle you can expect in retirement based on how much you can put away—from minimum, to moderate, to comfortable. For more guidance, our HR team is only a click or phone call away.

PROGRESS – STARTING EARLY MATTERS MOST

It's often tempting to wait until you earn more in order to save more. But every step you can make towards saving now is worth taking, no matter how big or small.

Committing to give yourself just £2 more a day opens up doors later on. Thanks to compound interest, every pound you save into your pension today has the potential to grow even more than a pound you shift in next month or next year. And when you make an increase, our company may top up what you pay in, and the government will give you tax relief so more of your money goes to your future. That's why it's important to invest whatever you can, as soon as you can.

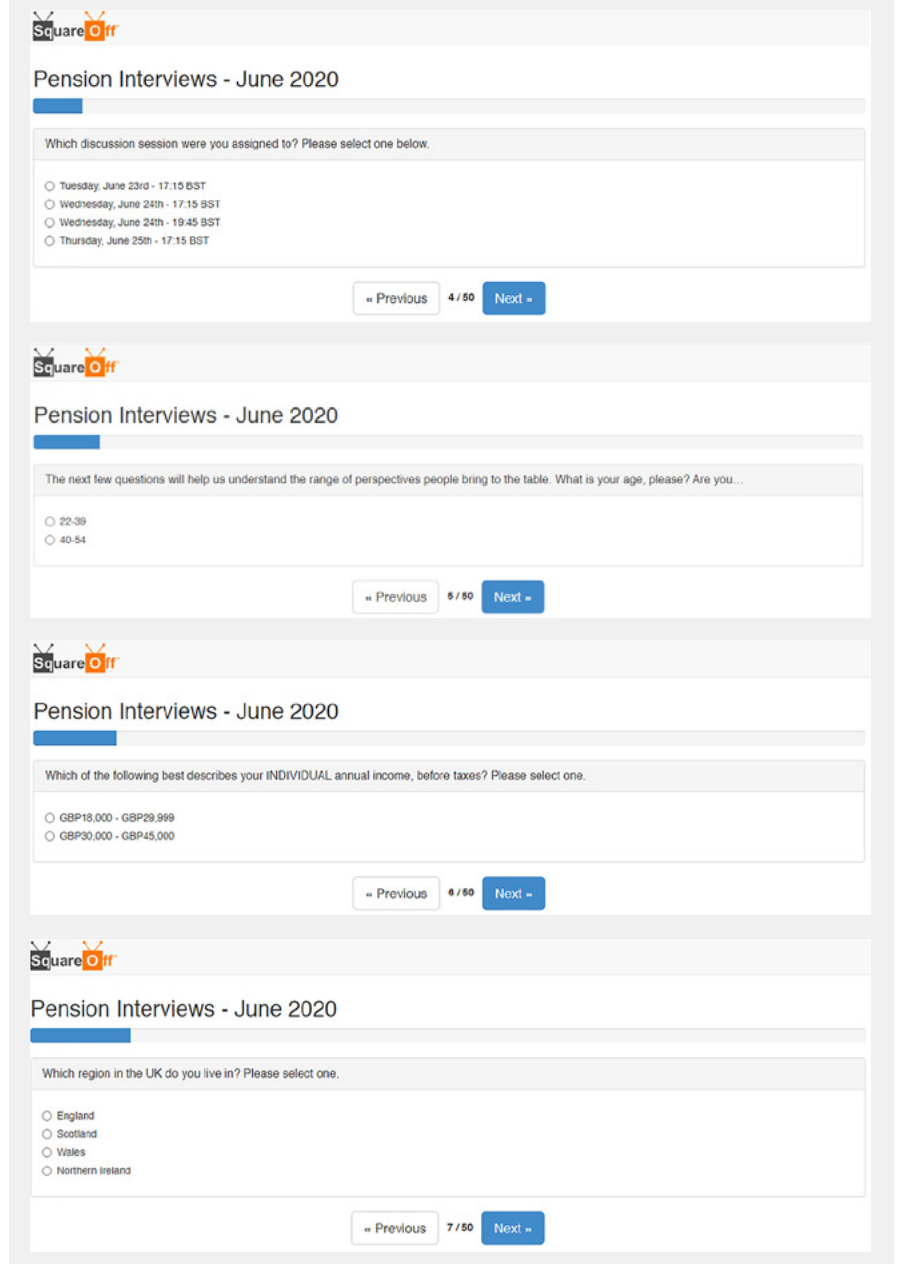

The images below depict the participant pre-work experience.

Participants were welcomed to the survey.

The screenshot shows the 'Square Off' logo at the top left. Below it, the title 'Pension Interviews - June 2020' is displayed. A message box contains the text: 'Welcome! Click the "Next" button below to get started.' At the bottom right, there is a progress indicator '1 / 50' and a blue 'Next >' button.

Participants were then asked a series of questions to segment their dial responses by audience demographic.

The four screenshots show a series of demographic questions in the 'Square Off' survey. Each screen has the title 'Pension Interviews - June 2020' and a progress bar.

Appendix E – Topic guide for group discussions

Group introduction (5 minutes)

Guidelines. Thank you for joining us here today. A few things before we get started:

- We ask that, if possible, you put your phone on silent during the session so as to focus on the conversation.
- I'm interested in hearing what YOU personally think about these issues—not what you think other people think about them. That means two things: it's okay if everyone doesn't agree on things, and you must contribute.
- We have a lot of material to cover, so at times we won't be able to hear from everyone—but I will make sure that all of you have a chance to share throughout the discussion.
- I don't work for the industry we're discussing, so please don't worry about hurting my feelings—please be as positive or negative as you feel. You won't offend anyone—and in fact, it's good to be extreme.
- Today's session is going to include a mix of discussion and activities. At certain points, like we're doing now, we'll be having a conversation only. At other times, I'll show you things to watch or read on-screen and ask for your reactions.
- We would also like to record this session for our internal note-taking purposes.
- Finally, I'd like to remind you that you signed a non-disclosure agreement before the start of the session. Everything we discuss is confidential and cannot leave this session.
- Are there any questions before we get started?

Opening discussion (10 minutes)

- [INTRODUCTIONS AND ICEBREAKER] Today we're going to talk a lot about planning for the future, so to start things off, let's go around and share our names—and the first place you're going to go once we're all free to move around again after Covid-19.
- You're going to see a blank box pop up on your screen, and I'll ask you to type into it. When I say "pension scheme," what are the first three words or phrases that come to mind? What did you type in? Why?
- During the session, we're going to talk about workplace pension schemes. These are pension schemes that your current employer offers that allow you to pay money in from your salary to an account set up in your name. You were likely automatically enrolled into your workplace pension, although in some circumstances you may have chosen to "opt in." We won't touch on other types of accounts.
- Next, when I say "pension contributions," what are the first three words or phrases that come to mind? Why?
- What questions do you have about pension contributions, if any?
- Regardless of whether you've checked this or not... what would be some reasons to check how much of your money is going into the pension? What would be some reasons NOT to check this?

Introduction to the methodology (5 minutes)

- Transition to the session. We'll spend the rest of our time together looking at a few ways to talk about pension schemes. More specifically, we're going to talk about all the reasons that you might decide to check or change how much money is going into the scheme. I want to get your feedback on different ways to talk about these areas. We'll explore what works well and what doesn't from your perspective.
- Everyone who's participating in this session has already listened and responded to a series of videos that explore these areas. During our discussion, I'll bring a selection of them back up on our screens, so we can discuss them in more detail.
- For each one, I'll ask what you think of the ideas and the specific words and phrases it uses. I'll also ask for your feedback on how it can be improved. Throughout, I want to understand what language you like, what language you don't like, and why.
- All the videos we see are going to come from the same person, but please try to imagine he's having a new conversation with you each time. Also, please don't react to what he looks like, or his tone of voice—focus on the message, not the messenger.
- Again, I'm interested in hearing how you really feel—don't worry about hurting anyone's feelings or being "too negative."
- Throughout our session, we'll also gather your feedback through some on-screen exercises we'll ask you to complete.
- Messages (1 hour and 20 mins)

Note:

- Titles (in bold) will not be shown to participants.
- After each message, the moderator will lead a discussion to dig into what stood out to participants and why.
- We will rotate the order of messages from session to session to avoid order bias.

Transition:

We're going to start off by talking more about different ways to talk about the money you put into your pension scheme.

Note: These messages will not be recorded. Instead, we'll show participants the short descriptions of contributions below and ask them to rate how clear and compelling they are, select language they like and dislike, and tell us why that language stands out.

Section 1: defining contributions

Section objective: Find the most compelling, clear language to define contributions.

[Stimulus used: see Section 1 in Appendix C]

Section 1 probes:

- What they are: Small amounts from each pay cheque vs bits of your salary vs a percentage of your earnings vs (not in messages) a pre-set number of pounds.
- What you do with them: Save them vs set them aside vs have in vs (not in messages) pay in.
- Why they matter: Help you incrementally build toward your retirement vs you can take them back out at a later date vs they can help you get more money from your savings.
- Savings vs retirement savings vs long-term savings vs later life savings – when they say savings, what do you hear? What about retirement savings? Which phrase do you use in the context of your pension?

Section 2: engaging members

Section objective: Find the language that drives participants to check how much of their salary they're contributing.

Barriers that might be at play:

The mindset	Why it matters
I don't know how	We can't move forward if we don't know the steps involved
It takes effort	We seek out the path of least resistance
If I do check, I assume it'll be low	We try to avoid learning more when we think the news is bad
My pension isn't a priority right now	We prioritise today over tomorrow

[Stimulus used: see Section 2 in Appendix C]

Section 3: questioning minimum enrolment

Section objective: Motivate members to determine whether the minimum contribution level set through automatic enrolment is right for their unique goals and circumstances.

Barriers that might be at play:

The mindset	Why it matters
The minimum contribution level was set by the government and my company	We tend to trust authority
Other people are sticking with the minimum contribution level	We often follow the crowd
The minimum contribution level is working for me now	We tend to maintain the status quo, and We think things will work out all right in the end
I'm not sure what my personal savings level should be	We prefer things that are certain
I can't save as much as I've been told I need to	We seek out perfection instead of being satisfied with progress

[Stimulus used: see Section 3 in Appendix C]

Wrap-up (5 minutes)

- After hearing all these messages, which message made the most sense to you? Why?
- We've talked a lot about pensions and want to know how you would talk about it to others. In one sentence, how would you tell someone why they should check how much money is going into their pension?
- Which words did you choose to use? Which words didn't you use?
- What would be your one piece of advice to your employer as they communicate with you about your pension scheme?

- 2 I am actively involved in and share in most of the financial decisions
- 3 Someone else makes all or most of the financial decisions

11. Offered a DC scheme

Now I want to ask you about two kinds of workplace pension schemes.

In a defined benefit scheme, an employer pays a defined amount to employees who meet certain criteria. At retirement, you receive an amount based on your earnings and your length of membership in the scheme. One example of a defined benefit scheme is a final salary scheme.

On the other hand, in a defined contribution scheme, both you and your employer make contributions into the pension. If your employer offers this type of scheme, you may have been automatically enrolled in it by your employer. At retirement, you receive an amount based on how much money has been contributed, how long the money has been invested, and how the investments have performed over time.

To the best of your knowledge, does your current employer offer you a defined benefit pension scheme, a defined contribution pension scheme, or both?

Select the option that best applies to you.

- 1 Defined benefit pension scheme only [Terminate]
- 2 Defined contribution pension scheme only
- 3 Both
- 4 Neither [Terminate]
- 5 I don't know [Terminate]

12. Enrolled in a DC scheme

The next question is specifically about your current employer's defined contribution scheme. As a reminder, this is when you and your employer make contributions into the pension. If eligible, you may have been automatically enrolled into this scheme with the choice to opt out, or you may have chosen to opt in. At retirement, you receive an amount based on how much money has been contributed, how long the money has been invested, and how the investments have performed over time.

Which best describes you?

Select one.

- 1 I am enrolled in the scheme, meaning I and/or my employer make contributions to the pension.
- 2 I am eligible for the scheme, but not enrolled. [Terminate]
- 3 I opted out of the scheme. [Terminate]
- 4 I am not eligible for the scheme. [Terminate]
- 5 I don't know.

13. How often they check their balance

How often do you check your pension balance?

[Min R1+R2, n=225]

[Min R3+R4+R5+R6, n=1050]

Select one.

- 1 Once a week
- 2 Once a month
- 3 Every few months
- 4 Once a year
- 5 Less than once a year
- 6 I have never checked my pension balance

14. Transition to the survey

[Message to respondents]

PLEASE READ THE FOLLOWING BEFORE YOU CONTINUE: The rest of the questions ask you about your workplace pension scheme, to help us understand your preferences and your knowledge of it. There are no right or wrong answers—we're interested to understand your individual views.

15. Opinion of pension

Select one.

- 1 portion of
- 2 percentage of
- 3 part of
- 4 deduction from

23. Reminder not to guess

[Message to respondents]

With the next few questions, we are trying to find out what people already know about workplace pension schemes. We plan to use these answers to design information campaigns to help people. So, it is important for you to tell us if you DON'T know about a topic that is asked about (actually, we expect that there are some topics most people might not be aware of). When that is the case, we prefer that you don't guess the answers—please just say that you don't know.

78b. Reason for rule of thumb

[Type in free response]

In your opinion, why is this piece of advice the most helpful?
Please explain in a few words.

79. % or £, minimum contribution

Which is the better explanation of how much you automatically save into your workplace pension?
Select one.

The minimum contribution is a total of 8% of your salary. Each month you save 4% from your payslip, and your employer and the government collectively contribute another 4% towards your pension.

79a. 10-20k

If you earn £15,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then you're saving about £100 per month and £1,200 per year. Each month you save £50 from your payslip, and your employer and the government together contribute another £50 towards your pension.

79b. 20-30k

If you earn £25,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then you're saving about £166 per month and £2,000 per year. Each month you save £83 from your payslip, and your employer and the government together contribute another £83 towards your pension.

79c. 30-40k

If you earn £35,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then you're saving about £233 per month and £2,800 per year. Each month you save £116 from your payslip, and your employer and the government together contribute another £116 towards your pension.

79d. 40-50k

If you earn £45,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then you're saving about £300 per month and £3,600 per year. Each month you save £150 from your payslip, and your employer and the government together contribute another £150 towards your pension.

79e. 50-60k

If you earn £55,000 per year and are setting aside the minimum contribution, then you're saving about £366 per month and £4,400 per year. Each month you save £183 from your payslip, and your employer and the government together contribute another £183 towards your pension.
